Altman Management Company Organizes Multiple Charity Drives

(Ft. Washington, PA – Dec. 2009) Altman Management Company is well-known for giving back to the communities in which it serves. The company's long-standing tradition of Holiday charitable drives continues this year, despite the recent tragic loss of two company executives, brothers Steven and Daniel Altman and Daniel's son, Doug.

To honor the Altman families, the company is contributing to causes that remain close to the family's heart. These include a contribution for a new storage facility for the tennis team at Upper Dublin High School where Doug was a member. In Steven's honor, a collection of gift cards will be donated to families in need in the name of Angels Flight East. This is an organization in which Steven participated by flying patients to medical centers so they could receive treatments that were vital to their health.

In addition to these specific causes, Altman's nearly 100 individual communities are coordinating a variety of charitable drives for numerous organizations throughout the Holidays. Some of the many contributions include: food collections for local churches, Adapt-a-Family donations, Toys for Tots, clothing collections, food collections for MANNA on Main Street and the Community Action Development Commission of Montgomery County for distribution to local food banks and soup kitchens, assistance and coat collections for homeless Veterans, and so much more.

"At Altman, we've always believed in helping those less fortunate," states Bob Bluth, President of Altman Management Company. "Our communities have made these charitable drives part of our Holiday tradition for years. This year particularly, helping in the communities that have been supportive of our company is especially gratifying."

Established in 1949 as a family-owned construction company; today, Altman Management Company is a full service property management, investment, and development firm. A respected leader in the real estate industry, the company operates approximately 100 apartment communities, serving thousands of residents throughout the Mid-Atlantic region.
